Scented Candles

Scented Candles

It is scientifically proven that scented candles can play an essential role in the physiological effects of mood, stress, working capacity, and overall mental health.

The soothing effect that candles have is based on how the brain processes smells. The smell of scented candles stimulates our limbic system, the part of the brain that is home to our memory and emotions.

Hormones like serotonin and dopamine can be produced to help regulate mood.

Therefore, our emotional state is influenced by the relationship that exists between scents, memories, and emotions.

LED Candles

LED Candles

LED candles also known as flameless candles, are an alternative to traditional flame candles. They are typically utilized as aesthetic lighting devices and come in a variety of shapes, color and sizes.

These LED candles are designed to eliminate the need for an open flame, therefore reducing their potential as fire hazards.

As a decorative element, the design of a flameless candle is relatively versatile.

The body of the device is commonly cylindrical, containing a battery pack and an often flame shaped LED light that rests at the top of the candle. Many manufacturers use LED lights with an irregular twinkling or flickering effect to stimulate the calming glow of an open flame.
